

Overview:

Quizlet is an online study application which lets students create virtual flashcards to study course content and prepare for quizzes, tests, and examinations. Teachers create these sets of virtual study cards for their students and publish them on the website for students to use.

Quizlet is hosted on www.quizlet.com.

4. When first entering the home page of Quizlet, the website will ask you to first create a class to help organize your students together. You can create a class at any time so if you'd like to come back later to create a class, feel free to do so. To create a class, Choose your class name, describe what you are teaching, and choose the school your class is associated with. Type in the name of your school, if your school is already associated with Quizlet, then you can select your school as an option, or click create your school to manually put in your school's information.

5. As a final step before creating the class, decide whether or not you'd like to allow your students to create their own study sets within the class and allow them to invite other students to participate in your class. The check box to allow this option is found above the school box. This option can be changed at any time.

☐ Allow your students to add study sets and new members

☐ Permite a tus estudiantes agregar nuevas unidades de estudio y nuevos miembros

Creating a study set:

1. To begin creating your own study sets, go to the top menu bar and click on create set

2. You'll be brought to the study set creator page. Choose the title for your study set and write a short description of what the content of your study set is going to be. There are a few other options for things to include but skip those and scroll down to the list of cards.

- Below the Add Diagram option, you'll see a starting list of empty cards for your study set. Choose what term you'd like to define in the first textbox and write your definition for that term in the second textbox. Below each text box, you can also change the language if you'd like to write terms and definitions in different languages. You also have the option to include or upload an image onto your card to make it more visually appealing. You can remove or move cards around with the top right buttons, or add a new card by scrolling down to the bottom of the list and clicking "Add Card".

4. Another alternative way to input the terms and definitions for your study set is to import a word document. Below the description textbox, click on the link for importing a document. This textbox allows you to copy and paste a written document's contents of terms and definitions. You can customize how Quizlet interprets and reads each line for each definition and how quizlet separates and pairs each term with its definition.

5. Once you finish creating all the cards in your study set, double check your visibility and editing permissions. You'll find those options to the right of the import word document option below your description textbox for your study set. You can decide to allow any quizlet user view your study set, your students inside a created class, or just you. You can also create a password to restrict access to using this study set only to those who you tell your password. You can also change your editing settings in the same way to allow either students in your class, or people with the correct password to edit your study set and change, delete, or add their own cards.
